A Novel Instance of Ante-Matrimonial Shrewdness.

THE BANK BOOK OF MOSES.

Legal Investigation of the Countess Heinruth's Claim.

INTERPRETING THE GAME LAW.

woman and her fortunes have been at the same time in-vited to a husband; but it is somewhat uncommon for a man to seek to embrace the fortune of his intended wife before he embraces herself. It remained for Ignatz Steindler to illustrate this last and newest phase of marijal experience by endeavoring to reap the fruits of the contemplated relation, in the shape of the bank book of his intended, before he had assumed the responsibilities of making the owner his wife. Hew meanly she regarded his attempt, how he was thwarted in his financial designs and the unwelcome complications which have been the result, are told as follows:-

tions which have been the result, are told as follows:

In February, 1877, Ignatz Steindler, becoming acquainted with Ernestina Moses proposed to marry her on the 15th day of May, 1877. Miss Moses, as she claims, agreed to the proposition of Steindler, and invitations were issued to about a hundred of their metual friends and relatives to attend their weading on the 16th of May. Miss Moses now complains that on the 16th of May Steindler requested her to transier to him a sum of money, which she has deposited in the Union Dime Savings Bank, and upon her hesitating so to do, Mr. Steindler stated that unless she did so he would not perform his agreement to marry her, and would not perform his agreement to mary her, and him Mosses says that, rather than have her anticipated marriage thus abroptly interferred with, she offered to have the money in the savings bank so transferred as to have it credited to their joint names, and that the bank book should be delivered up to her intended, which, meeting with the approval of Steindler, was accordingly accomplished. Miss Mosses, happy in succeeding in satisfying her intended, from the bank accompanied him to make certain purchases for use at the approaching wedding; but ne, while chegaged in the purchases, desired to be excussed for a few moments, requesting his intended order to avail his return. See waited with exemplary patience for a considerable time, but Steindler lailed to appear, and she thereupon despondently returned to her home, and upon arriving there was astounded at receiving notice that himediately upon Steindler leaving her he had returned to the bank and demanded payment of the entire sum of money transferred as above mentioned. The bank, from the fact of the speedy return of Steindler and his desire to draw the entire money, suspected unfairness, and refused to allow him to rereturned to the bank and demanded payment of the entire sum of money transferred as above mentioned. The bank, from the fact of the speedy return of Steindier and his desire to draw the entire money, suspecied unfairness, and refused to allow him to receive it until after he had given two days' notice, and thereupon she applied to her counsel, who procured an injunction restraining Steindier from drawing the money and the bank from paying it. A motion was yesterday argued before Judge J. F. Daly, in the Special Term of the Court of Common Pleas, for an order continuing the moneton. Mr. Richard S. New-combe appeared for Miss Moses and ex-Judge Hart represented the avarietous Steindier. Numerous affidavits were read on both sides, from which the electionant sought to make it appear and so testified that the plaintiff had agreed to give him the money in the Union Dime Savings Bank in consideration of his marriage, and also that sue had agreed to pay a brokerage to one of his friends for bringing about the match, and says further that the only reason of his refusal to marry the plaintiff was because she had deceived him by transferring to their joint account, whereas he understood it was to be transferred to him individually for immediate use. The plaintiff not only denies any such arrangement as that, but takes why, if such were the fact, he did not seek to draw the money in her presence in the bank, instead of returning to the bank without her knowling, by alving her waiting for him in the store to which they had gone to make their purchases? The plaintiff, by her papers, insists that the entire conduct of the defendant exhibited a clear intention to perpetrate a swindle upon her, as well us to break his promise of marriage, in support of which she says that he, immediately alter giving notice to the bank as required by them, proceeded to his lawyer, left the bank book as deconferred two judgments in the Supreme Court, one in favor of his inwyer and Mr. Bamburger and the other in favor of Mr. Studzynski, upon whi

ndered for him. ex-Judge Hart referred to the entire transaction as rendered for him.

Ex-Judge Hart referred to the entire transaction as a comean and redictions proceeding and that his client was entitled to the money at the savings bank upon the ground, as he claims, that the plaintiff had agreed to give him that mouey in consideration of his promise to marry Misa Moses. He also stated that the plaintiff was evidently simply compelling the defendant to marry her, as she had not only procured this injunction, out she had also procured him to be stressed in an action brought in the Supreme Court for $10,000 damages, and held to ban in the sum of $2.500, for breach of promise, and that the defendant, instead of now being in the enjoyment of the plaintiff's accumulations, was languishing in Ludiow Street Jail, and, in addition to that, her father had attached and taken into his possession his entire store and contents. Mr. Newcombe replied that if there was anything comical in any of the plaintiff to repose confidence in him by transferring her money to his game and immediately after succeeding in doing the defendant, who first procured the plannill to repose confidence in him by transferring her money to his same and immediately after succeeding in doing so sneaked back to the back to endeavor to procure her money, which if he had succeeded in doing, planning counsel intimated, would have been just so much money stolen; that it was not rue that defendon twas prevented from keeping his promise to marry he plaining by reason of being arrested, as he was not arrested until the day after the time fixed for the wedding, and with reference to the attachment levied upon his store, it was claimed that it was not lesued or levied until after it was discovered that Steindier was endeavoring to dispose of his property by the judgment and execution above referred to.

Judge Daty, after listening te the argument, directed that the papers be handed up to him this morning, when he will take the matter under consideration.

COUNTESS HEINRUTH'S ACCOUNTS.

All the material facts of any public interest in the suit brought by Catherine Nesta Ennismure Hicks (Countess Heinruth), sometimes called Catherine Nesta Rolland, against Robert Martin, executor of the last will and testament of Daniel Marley, have already been published in the HERALD. The case was reached for trial before Judge Van Brunt, in Supreme Court. special Term, yesterday, the plaintiff being represented by Messrs. Albert Stickney and John A Wright as counsel, and the delendant by Messrs. Laroque and McFarland. After the death of Mr. Mar loy his executor brought suit against the Countess to enterce payment of a bond to the deceased for $14,760. enteres payment of a bond to the deceased for $14,760. The Counters then commenced the present suit to stop the enforcement of the payment of this bond and to recover from the estate the sum of $141,851 92. The bond, she alleges, as well as the opposite balance in her favor, is the result of mixed, complicated and undar accounts kept by Hr. Mariey of a large amount of dealings which she had with him in his lifetime, and whereby, she claims, he not only brought her into his apparent debt, but concealed the large balance due her which she now claims. A fair examination of the accounts, she believes, will sustain her theory, and the balase of her being missed was her ignorance of business. The case is still on.

GAME OUT OF SEASON.

A suit was brought in the Marine Court to recover from Regan Brothers, under the Game laws, a penalty for having grouse in their possession on the late: March last. The law permits the possession of such game between the 1st of January and the 1st of March, provided they have been killed outside the jurisdiction of the State of New York and where the Game laws are not in force. The question then areas in the case on demurrer to the defendant's answer whether or not the lat of March was included in the privileged time. In deciding that point and after citing several decisions bearing on the question Judge McAdam says:-"I hold bearing on the question Judge McAdam says:—"I hold that the words 'from the lat day of January to the lat day of March,' include the months of January and February; that the lat day of January is included in that month, and that the lat day of March is not included in February by construction or otherwise, and that the lat day of March is secured. This, in my opinion, was the intended of the Legislature, and la the construction which must govern. The question whether the plaintif's action is one which commonds their does not enter into the legisl consideration of the case. The Legislature has deciared the law; it is constitutional and has in view an object humans and praise-worthy."

The case of Mary Williamson against Bertha Mendle-comm came up for argument before the General Term of the Court of Common Pleas, yesterday, on an appeal taken by the plaintiff from a decision rendered by Mr. Justice Pinckney, of the Seventh District Court, in lavor of the defendant. The action was brought to recover the possession of personal property, and it was claimed before Justice Pinckney that the plaintiff had sailed to prove title to the property to question for the inited to prove that to the property in question for the constraint of the property was no proof that the plaintiff had parted with the ownership thereof once the plaintiff had proved her title. On the other hand it was contended that a after the case of Scotleid against Wittledge the plaintiff must not only prove ownership but possession of the property fireli.

The Court reversed the judgment on the ground that the evidence abowed a right to such possession in the

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES.

Letters of administration were yesterday granted to John T. Wood, the grandson of Zachary Taylor, for-merly President of the United States, on the estate of his mother, Mary A. Wood, who at her death left a will, but failed to provide an executor therefor.

Orvill A. Ham, who was charged before Con

sioner Osborn with obtaining letters from the Post Office under the name of James Harris, was, after examination, held by the Commissioner to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Letters of administration were yesterday granted in the Surregate's office on the estate of Rheimaut Sayre to his brother, Frederick A. Sayre. The deceased was up to a short time previous to his death treasurer of

In the bankruptcy case of Lewis Foy, tried in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Blatchford, for transdulently concealing his assets with intent to defraud his creditors, defendant's counsel yesterday moved to dismiss the case, on the ground that there was nothing shown by the evidence for the prosecution inconsistent with the theory of the innocence of his client. The motion was denied. Evidence for the accused was then put in, and the court adjourned till

In the contested will case of Samuel J. Downes at appears that the deceased left an estate valued at $200,000, the principal part of which he bequeathed to his two living daughters, cutting off with but fivery small bequest his grandson, child of a deceased daughter, Mrs. Walsh. Young Walsh contests the will on the usual ground of undue influence. The case is before Surrogate Calvin. The contestant was asked by counsel if he had not been turned out of his home by his aunts. The question was objected to and ruled out. The case is still on.

In the smi of kidins Hatch and others against the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad Company,

In the suit of Reins Hatch and Others age.
Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad Company, in which the Supreme Court, General Term, has just rendered a decision holding that sufficient grounds had not been shown by plaintiffs to warrant the granting of a mandamus to compel permission to mapect the transfer book, it was stated yesterday that an appeal would be taken on the part of Mr. Hatch to the Court of Appeals.

would be taken on the part of Mr. Hatch to the Court of Appeals.

The neart of David Moral was yesterday made glad by an order made by Judge Van Brunt, on motion of Mr. Richard S. Newcombe, releasing him from arrest in a proceeding in which he had been committed to Ludiow street Jail for contempt for not paying over a sum of $3,560 which the Court found to be due to R. Soiemon. The order releasing him was made in consequence of its being made to appear to the Court that Moral was suffering from sickness growing out of his confinement. The motion was opposed by Messra Biumensteil and Ascher.

DECISIONS. SUPREME COURT-CHAMBERS.

By Judge Barrett.

Hinckley vs. Pierson et al.; The Mutual Life Insurance Company vs. Voorhis; The East River Savings
Hank vs. Cameron; Bets vs. Horne et al.—Motions

Matter of Honsman,—Report confirmed, and com-mission ordered to issue. Under the circumstances I think $500 would be a reasonable fee for petitioner's counsel.

The Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank vs. Seery.—
Judgment granted, with allowance of two and a half per cent.
The Michigan Central Railroad Company vs. Morton.—Motion to vacate attachment granted.

Hubbell vs. The Union Metual Insurance Company.—The motion in this and the other cases to bring Mr. Taylor in as a party I must deny, but without costs, as costs of one motion have already been warded.

The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company vs. Drew Referred back to the referree to take proof as to the value of the assets, and to report with his opinion as to the lawful and proper amount of commissions, and also as to what would be a proper and lawful sum, if any, to be awarded to the plaintiff or any of the par-any, to be awarded to the plaintiff or any of the parties to the action.

Matter of McElvaney.—The application for a mandamus must be denied, with $10 costs, with leave to renew upon payment of such costs and upon further papers proving, if the relator can, the payment of the taxes and water rate in question.

The Manufacturers' National Bank of Troy vs. De Grand.—Mr. Chuich's affidavits show that the case was noticed for trial as required by the Gode. Donied.

White vs. White.—Report confirmed and judgment of divorce granted and custody of child awarded to plaintiff.

im vs. Teyeney. - Motion granted for first Fri-

Anheim vs. Teyeney.—Motion granted for first Fri-day of June.

The hallow & Rand Powder Company vs. McAndrew.— Motion granted and reference ordered to Charles H. Hil-dreth, to hear and determine.

Devin vs. Martin.—Report confirmed and judgment granted.

Peters vs. Hicks.—Motion to change place of trial granted, with $10 costs to abide the event. Upon the stipulation filed such a suit should not have been brought in this Court at all, and certainly Dutchess county is the proper place for it.

Bacon vs. Warren and another.—Motion to amend granted on payment of costs which have accrited since service of original answer and $10 cost of opposing this motion. Motion to place cause on special circuit calendar denice.

this motion. Motion to place cause on special circuit calendar denied.

Powers vs. Patterson.—Motion granted for first Friday of June.

Rothschild vs. Licht.—Motion denied, with $10 costs. day of June.

Rothschild vs. Licha.—Motion dented, with $10 costs.

Moran vs. Brown.—Mr. Strahan's points were to have been submitted by the 14th inst. As none have been received, and it is now the 2id, I presume the claim of the potitioner is conceded. After examining the potition and biref submitted, and there being a opposition, the prayer of the positioner must be granned.

The security Bank vs. Warren .- Further reflection

The Security Bank vs. Warren.—Further reflection has only deepened the impression suggested upon the argument. The motion for a stay of proceedings without security must be defined, but without prejudice in due time to an application for a stay of the distribution of whatever may actually be recovered upon the bond. The Manufacturers' National Bank vs. Meyer.—Motion granted for June.

Beaner vs. Gorman.—The purchaser is entitled to a deed free from Peterkin's claim as well as from any other. It would not be just to subject such purchase to any risk in the matter. The referee will therefore redeem against and cancel Peterkin's certificate or procure an assignment of his lease, as the case may be, paying him therefor what he is entitled to under the statute. There is nothing in the point that Peterkin's rights were lost by subsequent sales; that is nothing upon the lacts disclosed.

Phalb vs. Wright.—This action does not involve the examination of a long account, but the lengthy detains of services in representing the defendant's interest in her lather's estate. The late decisions settle this question, and the motion must be denied, with $10 costs.

Lockwood vs. White.—There is no long account infacts.

Costs.

Lockwood va. White.—There is no long account involved so long as the release stands. The plaintiff must first set it used if he can on the ground of frant. That is really the first issue, atthough not so in fore, and on that issue defendant is clearly entitled to a jury trial. The motion must, therefore, as the case stands, be denied and with costs.

Matter of the Peysor.—Application granted. See memorandum.

emorandum. Burren vs. Hemer.—Order seitled as proposed. Donohue vs. Detectue et al.—The application must be denied. The principal under the rule can only be para over to the principal under the rule can only be para over to the principal under the principal of the principal bured real estate being furnished.

GENERAL SESSIONS-PART 1. Before Recorder Hackett

A BRACE OF BOUGHS PUNISHED. Two men of not very engaging appearance entered the saloon of Isaac Reid, No. 64 West Third street, on the night of April 3, and at once created a disturbance. While one of them, Thomas W. Emperor, amused himself with swearing flercely, the other intruder, John Johnson, assumed an aggressive appearance, and as proprietor of the place attempted to eject Johnson, the more currely of the two, whereupon the latter made a savage assault upon him, atruck him five terrible blows on the head with a slung-shot and indicted serious wounds. The rufflans then field. Captain Byrne sent out Detective Slevin to nutl them up, and he succeeded in overnauling Johnson. When searched at the police station a deadly implement was found on his person. The officer then set out to overhead Emocror, who was thatly captured after a good chase, during which he threw away a slungshot. Johnson was straigned for trial yesterday by assistant District Attorney field on the charge of telomous assault, and promptly convicted. The Kencrder, after commenting on the brutal attack he had made upon an unoffending citizen, sent the prisoner to sing Sing for the term of three years. Emperor was subsequently arraigned for trial by Mr. Bell, The jury remained out a considerable time, seemingly unable to agree. In their absence, however, the prisoner picaded guity to the charge of carrying concealed weapons, and was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. matters were becoming somewhat disagreeable the

ARREST WITHOUT WARRANT.

The attention of the Supreme Court, Circuit, Justice Gilbert, was occupied yesterday in the trial of a suit brought by Mrs. Anna Parsons against Louis Windmutter and J. A. Smith to recover $5,000 for assault and malicious prosecution. Her husband, Frank Parsons, was employed as coachman and gardener by Mr. Windmuller, a wealthy land owner, by Mr. Windmuller, a wealthy land owner, residing at Woodstock, L. L., in November, 1875. Defendant discharged Parsons and ordered 1875. Defendant discharged Parsons and ordered him to vacate his rooms. The latter refused to obey, and flourished a pustol in such a threatening manner that the women about the place became alarmed. Smith, who was a constable, was called to dispossess the plantiff and was resisted by her. He then arrested her and took his prisocer to Nowtown, intending to bring her before Justice Vanderveer. As the latter official was not ready to proceed with the examination, the constable, who keeps a lager beer saloon, kept his prisoner at the latter place that night. The following day the case was dismissed, no charge being preferred against her. Smith acknowledged on the trial that he had no warrant for her arrest, and that if he said he had a warrant be had told a bare-laced ile. The jury retired to deliberate and will return a sealed verdict to-day.

The day calendar of the Court of Appeals for Wodnesday, May 23, 1877, is as follows:—Nos. 8, 94, 9, 10, 11, 16, 17 and 19. LIENS ON THE NEW JERSEY CEN-

TRAL RAILROAD PROPERTY. [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.]

TRENTON, N. J., May 22, 1877.
In the Court of Chancery here to-day counsel for the receives of the New Jersey Southern Railroad Company applied for further instructions relative to the recent order of the Chancellor touching the liens on the docks of the company at Sandy Hook and on the docks of the company at Sandy Hook and other property at that place; also to describe the Hen claims which the Lackawanna Coal Company possess. The Chancellor agreeded a reference to the Vice Chancellor regarding the Hens and ordered the master, W. S. Gummers, to describe and state by circular the particular personal property on which the Lackawanna Coal Company has a Hen. Mr. Clarkson N., Potter, of New York, representing $25,000 worth of first mortgage bonds, asked the Chancellor to permit him to enlarge the bid on the sale of the property by the receiver, which was heretofore limited to $500,000. Application refused.

"PLEASE PAY A MECHANIC."

James H. Egin, Secretary of the Attrition Mill Company, of No. 29 Broadway, caused the arrest yesterday of a former workman in the employ of the company, named Daniel Cree, on the charge of disorderly con named Daniel Cree, on the charge of disorderly conduct. The prisoner claimed that they owed him a small balance of his wages. He called repeatedly for the sam, being very much in want, but could receive no satisfaction. Rendered desporate, he yesterday wrote on a placard the words, "riease pay a mechanic," and, pinning it on his hat, walked up and down in front of the company's office. A crowd soon collected, and much sympathy was expressed for the man, but Egin called an officer and had him arrested for disorderly conduct.

conduct.

When the prisoner told his story to Justice Otter-bourg, at the Tombs Police Court, the latter at once ordered his release, advising him to bring an action for the thin against the corporation for the amount due him.

CRUELTY TO CHICKENS.

Mr. Alonso Evans, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, yesterday caused the arrest of two men named George Reed and William Williams, been in the poultry business for years, and it had always been his custom in preparing fewl to first plungs a knile into the neck of the chicken and then proceed immediately to pluck the feathers, as the operation was easier and more effectual while the natural warmth remained in the carcass. Judge Kilbroth held the accused in $100 bail each to answer at Special Sessions.

"WES." ALLEN'S LUCK.

Wesley Allen, who was arrested for picking the pocket of Mr. William Taylor, on a Vanderbilt avenue car, Brooklyn, on May 14, was discharged on examina car, Brooklyn, on May 14, was discharged on examina-tion before Police Justice Waish yesterday. The evi-dence went to show that Allen was in the car on the day in question and was standing with a coat on his left arm by the side of the plaintiff, when he abruptly alighted near the Park, attracting the attention of Mr. Taylor by his conduct. It was not till an hour and a hair later, however, that Mr. Taylor missed his watch and chain.

THE RUMSELLER'S RISK.

Suit was brought in the Brooklyn City Court, before Judge Reynolds, yesterday, by Mrs. Mary E. Richards, der the Civil Damage act, against Diedrich Hoffman and Henry Stooks. She claims $5,000 damages against the defendants for having sold fiquor to her husband, Edward K. Richards. The latter gentleman is a namber of a lumber firm doing business on Tompkins avenue. Plaintiff alleges that from May to December, 1876, Mr. Richards was a frequent visitor at the saloon of detendants, where he was in the habit of getting intoxicated and then returning home and making a disturbance there. When he was a sober and industrious man her husband had been in the habit of giving her from $300 to $400 per month for household expenses. Hoffman had been frequently notified not to seil liquor to her husband. Delence is that Mr. Richards was a drunkard long before the allegations charged in the complaint. The case will be continued to-day. the defendants for having sold liquor to her husband,

A QUEER KIND OF LOVER. Charles H. Kohlbaas, residing in South Ninth street,

Brooklyn, E. D., was arraigned before Justice Semier in that city, yesterday, charged with attempting to rob Miss Isabella Hein, of No. 229 South Ninth street, by sending her threatening letters. A few years ago the accused was engaged in the wine business in this city. and during these days of his prosperity became intiteen years of age. It is alleged that he engaged himself to the charming young lady and was soon in favor teen years of age. It is alleged that he engaged himself to the charming young lady and was soon in favor with Miss Hein's parents. It is further alleged that after the engagement kehlmass tailed in business and that his future father-in-law was persuaded to advance him about $5,000 for the purpose of restarting in the same occupation with one of Mr. Hein's sons. A trip to Europe was then taken by Mr. Hein and the accused, and superior qualities of wine ware purchased, Mr. Hein paying for the same. Kehlmass returned home first, and brought with him numerous presents from Mr. Hein to his family, among which were several silk dresses. These, it is alleged, he represented as coming from himself. After his arrival home it is said that he began to live an extravagant life, that the second business adventure inited, and that he assigned the presents to Mr. Hein in discharge of that gentleman's advance. When it was discovered by the assignee that the concern was entirely exhausted and his assets amounted to nothing Miss Hein broke off her engagement with Kohihaas. The young lady afterward received letters from Kohihaas demanding the return of the presents he had made her, and threatening to take legal steps in case she refused to comply with his request. She took no notice of them, and the last letter she received is unfit for publication and had no name signed to it. This epistic was handed to her father who went in search of Kohihaas and thrashed him. Afterward the accused, it is alleged, circulated stories to the effect that he had bought Mrs. Hein and her daughter freeses of value which they persisted in retaining. Kohihaas was then arrestsed. Justice semier adjourned the case, and the accused was held to bonds in the sum of $1,000.
